Reservoirs, Lake Filled

Foot and Half Pours Over Spillway
At Lake; 3.31 Inch Rainfall for Week

With 3.31 inches of rain this week, nearly three inches of which fell Tuesday night, yesterday and last night, all the Harrisburg city water storage places will be filled to capacity by tonight.

A foot and a half of water was pouring over the spillway at Lake Harrisburg this morning, making the local lake on Route 34 near Galatia look like a Niagara falls.

Amos Doom, water and sewer department superintendent, said that with all pumps going today both the standby reservoirs will be full tonight. This morning the south reservoir was nine inches and the north reservoir one foot from the top. The borrow pits, which hold about two months supply of water, were running over.

Rainfall from 7 a. m. yesterday measured two inches. The previous reading was .85 inch and on Monday the rainfall was .46 inch, bringing the total to 3.31 for the week.

And there were prospects for more rain today.

This morning creeks and ditches in the area were running over their banks, filling lowlands and covering some roads. Notably, the gravel road east of Barnett street that connects Routes 34 and 45 was under water and there was water over Route 45 near the reservoir south of Carrier Mills but traffic was moving over the road satisfactorily.

Harrison Kibler, at the Pankey Branch pumping station, said the Middle Fork creek gauge read 19.36 feet this morning, which is nearly high enough to close the flood gates and pump water out of the city.

Right now the water is moving out but, he said, if there is more rain the pumps will have to be put in use. He said the pumps at the North Harrisburg pumping station, into which the west Harrisburg drainage ditch runs, would be put into operation first, followed by the starting of the pumps where Pankey Branch moves thru the levee east of town.

Heaviest rain came at 2:30 p. m. yesterday, when a dark cloud sped in quickly from the east. It created such darkness that motorists were forced to use their lights at mid-afternoon. The accompanying wind was not bad, however, as it was too high to do damage.

Winds, Icy Rains Batter Illinois; Predict More Area Thunderstorms

By United Press

Weathermen warned of more severe thunderstorms in southern Illinois today on the heels of damaging winds and icy rains that battered much of the state during the night.

One death was blamed on the weather and telephone service was cut to at least three communities during the storm Wednesday night.

Danny M. White, 5, Vandalia, drowned late Wednesday when he was swept off his feet by a rain swollen stream near his home.

The ice storm caused hazardous driving conditions on many roads in northern and central sections, but highways cleared during the morning due to warmer weather.

The Illinois Bell Telephone Co. reported telephone service was cut to Paxton, Gibson City and Manteno in east-central Illinois during the night.

About 200 extra repairmen were called out to restore line which snapped under the weight of ice and strong winds.

The combination of ice and violent wind gusts also uprooted trees and knocked down signs in the Cairo area. Several store windows were blown in and a Cairo manufacturing firm lost part of its roof.

A section of roof also was torn from a school at Mounds City and several hotels in the area reported roof damage.

Forecasters said rain was expected to continue in all sections today, with a possibility of severe thunderstorms and high winds in the extreme south.

Clearing and warmer weather is seen for Friday. Temperatures are day to range from the upper 30s in the north to the low 70s in the south. Tomorrow's lows are to be from the mid-30s north to mid-40s south.

Mother of Five Children Is Killed By Pet Chicken

BUXWORTH, England (U.P.)—A chicken killed Mrs. Ethel Bowden Wednesday.

The 51-year-old farm wife bled to death after her pet white cockerell bit her on the leg and severed an artery.

The mother of five children was unable to stop the bleeding and died within an hour, although her children ran to a nearby farm for help.

Death Takes Mrs. Ewing McSparin, Former Resident

Mrs. Minnie McSparin, 77 years of age, died at the White County Nursing home in Carmi Wednesday night.

Mrs. McSparin, who formerly lived on Homer street in this city, had been a patient in the nursing home for the past three years.

She was born in Pope county, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Chaney.

Mrs. McSparin's husband, Ewing McSparin, died March 22, 1955.

Five children survive: Mrs. Blanch Laber and Miss Mary McSparin, both of St. Louis, Clifford McSparin of Gary, Ind., Lester McSparin, Modesto, Calif., and Warren McSparin, with the U. S. Marine Corps in Austria. A son, James, preceded her in death.

A sister, Mrs. Jessie DeMoss of Harrisburg, also survives.

She was a member of the Spring Valley church, south of Harrisburg. The body lies in state at the Gaskins funeral home. Funeral arrangements are incomplete, pending word from the son in Austria.

Rites at Galatia Saturday for Robert Jenkins, 78

Robert Jenkins, 78, died at his home in Peoria Wednesday and the body will be received by the Courtney funeral home in Galatia this evening.

He is a son of the late Booker and Mary Jenkins of Harrisburg. For the past several years he was employed by the Elmver Road Construction company of Oregon, Ill.

Mr. Jenkins was a member of the Galatia Masonic lodge No. 684 and the First Baptist church of Harrisburg.

He is survived by his wife, the former Gladys Slavens; one son, Robert L. Jenkins of Rockford, and two grandchildren.

Three brothers also survive. Thomas Jenkins, Harrisburg, Nathan Jenkins, Herod, Ernest Jenkins, San Bernardino, Calif.

The body will lie in state at the Courtney funeral home until the funeral Saturday at 11 a. m. Services will be held at the Baptist church in Galatia, with Masonic rites. Burial will be in Sunset Hill cemetery, Harrisburg.

Accidental Injuries Ruled In Tapley Death

A coroner's jury last night returned a verdict that Floyd Tapley, Eldorado died of accidental injuries in an auto incident in Eldorado March 21.

Tapley's car hit a brick wall between two Eldorado houses after it left the street. Witnesses said that he had fallen over from the wheel but an autopsy report brought into the evidence revealed that although he had suffered a heart attack it was insufficient to cause his death and that death was due to the accident.

Another witness testified that Tapley lived three or four minutes in the car after the crash.

In another inquest, also conducted by Coroner James Thornton last night at the Eldorado city hall, the jury returned a verdict that George Boyer, McLeansboro, died of injuries received in an unavoidable accident March 25 near McLeansboro. He died the same day in the Pearce hospital at Eldorado.

His car figured in a head-on collision with another in a blinding snowstorm.

Wind Damage Near Golconda

Pope County Sheriff James R. Gilliam reported the small community of Tansil, five miles southwest of Golconda, was hit by damaging winds yesterday afternoon.

The storm struck the area about 2 p. m. and two Golconda teachers reported seeing a tornado funnel about 2 p. m. over the Tansil area.

However, the funnel was high in the air and the teachers said it touched the ground.

Heaviest determined damage was to the home and outbuildings on the Joe Billington farm. Hog and poultry houses were destroyed. Roofs and timber from the outbuildings were blown a half mile.

The roof was blown off the Billington home and windows, venetian blinds and wall pictures were smashed and the chimney toppled.

Chimneys were destroyed on a number of other homes in the area and many persons had to go to Golconda to spend the night.

A barn was destroyed and most outbuildings were damaged on the farm of James N. Roper, Pope County Republican chairman.

Similar damage was reported to the farm of Roper's mother, who lives across the road from her son.

Two new large barns were destroyed and roof and window damage was reported to the home on the Amos Tanner farm.

Harry Swinford lost poultry houses and his outbuildings and the roof of his house were damaged.

Death Takes Mrs. W. J. Hine, 76

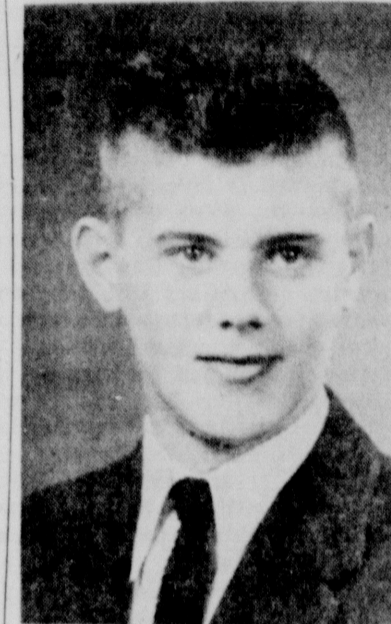

Mrs. Bertha L. Hine, 76, of 3 South McKinley, died at 5 a. m. today in the Harrisburg hospital. She had been in ill health for a number of months.

Mrs. Hine was born Sept. 20, 1881, at Shawneetown, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Christian Zinn. In 1900 she was married to W. J. Hine who preceded her in death on Feb. 28, 1937.

She was a member of the First Presbyterian church. Her body is at the Gaskins funeral home where funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Mrs. Hine is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Pierce B. (Chrysol) Ward, Riverside, Calif.; two sons, Willard E. Hine, Mexico, Mo., and Charles R. Hine, Harrisburg; two grandchildren, Mrs. Willard Fulkerson, Harrisburg, and Mrs. J. Randolph Wyly, New York City; and three great-grandchildren.

Eddie Quade, Karen Skaggs Elected to Area Student Council Top Offices

Eddie Quade

Karen Skaggs

Eddie Quade, son of Mrs. Betty Dunn, 412 North Granger, and Karen Skaggs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Skaggs, 129 West Poplar, were recently elected president and vice president of the Area 1 Student Councils. HTHS now holds two of the three offices of the area. For the past two years Harrisburg has held the vice presidency.

The theme for the meeting, which was held at HTHS in Bonnell gym April 2, was "Coming Together is a Beginning; Keeping Together is Progress; Working Together is Success."

The meeting was called to order by President Wayne Whiteside of Norris City. The pledge to the flag was given by Vice President Bryan Jones of Harrisburg and the National Anthem was sung by Philip Kane of Harrisburg. The invocation was presented by HTHS.

The business meeting was called to order after a film, "Student Government at Work," on activities concerning the Student Council.

After the election of the new officers, outgoing president Whiteside turned the gavel over to the new president, Eddie Quade.

Refreshments were served in the cafeteria by the HTHS Student Council. The schools represented were Harrisburg, Carmi, Norris City, and Carrier Mills.

Suicide Plans Foiled

French War Hero Kills Retired American General, Wife in Florida

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (U.P.)—A berserk French war hero Wednesday night killed a retired American brigadier general, once an adviser to Chiang Kai-shek, and the general's wife because he said they foiled his suicide plans.

Maurice M. Chavigny, 43, a former French Legionnaire and veteran of four wars, told police he killed Brig. Gen. W. R. McReynolds (Ret.) and his wife, Faye, with seven shots when they "rushed at me" to try and take away his 22 caliber automatic pistol.

He had been living with the couple. Officers captured Chavigny after a 20-block shooting chase. Chavigny was booked temporarily for investigation of murder. He was crying and muttering in broken English when he emerged from an intensive police questioning.

McReynolds, 64, who helped inaugurate the Army's use of "C" and "K" rations, was found sprawled in the living room of his comfortable home on Snell Island, an exclusive residential area here.

Shot five times, he lay in a pool of blood, clad in walking shorts and a T-shirt.

Mrs. McReynolds, a youthful-looking woman of 60, was lying in the kitchen of their home dressed in tight-fitting torreador pants.

Lee said Chavigny, a short handsome man with graying hair, told investigators he had "tried several times before" to leave the McReynolds, but each time the couple pleaded with him to stay on.

He finally "made up my mind to kill myself," he said.

Detective Lt. Ralph Lee said Chavigny told of buying the pistol and putting on his army uniform in preparation to leaving the McReynolds home. Lee said Mrs. McReynolds and then the general "rushed him" and tried to take away the gun. The shooting followed.

McReynolds, a veteran of 32 years in the Army and two world wars, retired from duty in 1949 and moved here with his wife in 1951. He was a native of Springfield, Ohio, and a graduate of the University of Ohio.

Bill Providing Higher Pay for Assessors Signed by Stratton

SPRINGFIELD (U.P.)—Higher salary levels for township assessors, according to population, were provided in a bill signed into law Wednesday by Gov. William G. Stratton.

Under the new law, assessors in townships with less than 14,000 population can be paid "not more than" $20 a day, instead of the present "not less than" $8 a day. The annual maximum would be $4,000.

Other new maximums set were $6,000 a year for assessors in townships with 14,000 to 30,000 population; $7,500 for townships with 30,000 to 60,000 population and $10,000 for townships with 60,000 to 150,000 population.

Possible County May Have Fewer Polling Places for Judicial Election June 3

It is possible that all of the 34 polling places in Saline county will not be used in the coming judicial election to elect three Circuit judges. The election will be held Monday, June 3.

There are three Circuit judges to be elected and only three candidates, as the Democrats failed to nominate candidates at the party convention held Saturday, March 23, at Vienna.

Robert V. Wilson, state's attorney of Saline county, has pointed out that in such a situation Chapter 46, Section 11.2 of the Illinois statutes authorizes the County Board of Supervisors to determine the number of voting precincts or districts to be established.

A central polling place in the county could be established, or any number the board members deem necessary, up to the usual 34.

In a letter to the Board of Supervisors State's Attorney Wilson states in part "... Such action of

Decision Hinges On Outcome of Funds Dispute

Democrats On House Subcommittee Refuse
Full Emergency Money

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield announced publicly today that he may have to order a drastic cutback in mail service starting Saturday unless Congress gives him an emergency $47 million appropriation.

He said he may have to shut down all post office windows on Saturday, halt Saturday mail delivery service and make other deductions in service.

Summerfield called an "emergency" news conference to announce that he was waiting "minute by minute and hour by hour" to decide what mail service cuts would have to be made.

Summerfield said "This will be the most difficult decision any postmaster general in history has ever been called on to make."

His decision hinges on the outcome of an angry row with the Democratic-controlled House Appropriations subcommittee which has voted to give him only $17 million of the $47 million he says he needs to keep the department going full blast until July 1.

Democrats on the subcommittee were standing firm, but Republicans hoped that the House would side with Summerfield and vote him the full amount.

Lists Probable Curtailments

Summerfield said the Post Office Department is considering the following curtailments:

—Embargo acceptance and delivery of all third-class mail, except merchandise.

—Discontinue city carrier delivery of all classes of mail on Saturdays.

—Close all post offices on Saturdays and discontinue rural delivery of all classes of mail on Saturdays.

—Discontinue sale of money orders throughout the country for the next three months.

—Reduce deliveries of mail in business districts of cities from two and three a day to one a day.

Summerfield declined to say which of the measures would be given "priority."

"Fault of the Congress"

He said the action of the House Appropriations subcommittee in voting only $17 million of his $47 million request "is one of the most disturbing things I've ever been confronted with in my lifetime."

Summerfield said the $17 million would cover only pay increases to postal employees.

He disclaimed any "responsibility" on the part of the Post Office Department or the administration for any reduction in mail service that might have to be undertaken.

"It is no fault of the Americans if they are not paying enough," Summerfield declared. "It is the fault of the Congress."

This was a reference to administration efforts to get postal rate increases.

Summerfield blamed Congress for submitting to the "pressures" of the "magazine lobby and third-class lobby."

He said these "lobbies" have "frozen" rates on first and second class mail.

A Crack In The Constitution

Editorial — BY BRUCE BLOSSAT

Most of our statesmen and governmental authorities agree the U.
S. Constitution fails to meet adequately a situation wherein a president of the United States suffers illness which puts in question his ability to perform his duties.

The feeling is growing that this gap must be closed if orderly, effective government is to be assured in this country at all times. This hectic, fast-flying age is a time of often sudden illness and sudden accident. We must be fully prepared for any stroke of misfortune.

President Eisenhower, who gave the matter much thought while recovering from his 1955 heart attack, believes action is vital. Attorney General Brownell suggests amending the Constitution at an early moment. Many lawmakers have tossed plans into the hopper, and constitutional specialists offer
a variety of proposals.

The Constitution quite plainly states that in the event a president is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office they shall fall to the vice president.

But two big dilemmas have long persisted. One is whether a vice president, upon taking over his superior, actually gains the office itself or simply a temporary assignment of its powers and duties.

The overwhelming consensus among those attending to the problem is that the vice president should merely acquire the president's functions temporarily, returning to his status as understudy when the president is fit to serve again. This is Brownell's proposal, presumably with Mr. Eisenhower's approval.

Much more perplexing is the second puzzle: "Who shall decide when the president is unable to perform his duties?"

Among those proposed as qualified to make this vital decision are the president himself, the vice president, the cabinet, the Supreme Court, the chief justice, with the aid of a medical panel, and various types of "inability commissions."

Brownell suggests the president himself can declare his inability to serve. Many think this is all right as far as it goes. What worries them is who decides when a president is too ill to do so.

President Garfield, felled by an assassin's bullet July 2, 1881, lingered between life and death until Sept. 19, most of the time in a coma. If at that time he signed one paper, President Wilson suffered a stroke in late September, 1919, and never again had his full physical or mental powers in the remaining 17 months of his term.
In neither case did the vice president take over.

Critics of the numerous proposals say the vice president shouldn't decide on presidential inability because he's an interested party;
that the cabinet is too close to the president for impartial judgment; that the Supreme Court shouldn't mix in politics; that people won't accept the verdict of only one person, even if he be Chief Justice and be advised by eminent doctors.

Debate and delay could be painful and long. To avoid that dangerous prospect, support is mounting for some sort of permanent commission composed of men from all three branches of government
— the Executive (cabinet) Congress and the Supreme Court.

This support is based on the feeling that a group thus balanced would tend to cancel out individual defects and prejudices and reach a fair verdict on any president's inability to serve. Naturally it would have medical guidance and decide for itself what constituted
"inability" in any given case.

This country's need for uninterrupted leadership is too great, its role in world affairs too vast, for

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND by DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
Dangers Still Loom In The Near East; French Are Sore
At Double-Cross Given Israel;
British Wouldn't Entirely Trust Dulles' Word At Bermuda.

WASHINGTON. — Things are simmering a bit more silently in the Near East since the Bermuda conference, but they are still simmering dangerously. Three developments point to danger:

Development No. 1.—The American embassy in Jerusalem has warned the State Department that Prime Minister Ben-Gurion is dearly serious about going to war against Egypt the minute Nasser shows the first sign of starting his border raids again.

Ben-Gurion and his entire cabinet are convinced both Eisenhower and John Foster Dulles welshed on their promise that Egypt would not return to the Gaza Strip.

Development No. 2.—Dulles' statement last week that transit through the Gulf of Aqaba should be submitted to the World Court, further convinced the Israelis that they had been double-crossed.

His statement brought Israeli Minister Shiloah down to the State Department to remind Dulles that earlier he had said Israel had every right to pass through this narrow waterway. The protection of U. S. naval vessels was even discussed. Dulles' late proposal of putting the question before the World Court would take a year or more of argument.

Development No. 3.—Premier Mollet has promised the Israelis protection of the French air force
if they decide to attack Nasser again.

Premier Mollet is so burned up over the double-cross given to Israel that he has vowed never to trust any agreement with Eisenhower as long as John Foster Dulles remains secretary of state. It was Mollet who, while visiting in Washington last February, was largely responsible for persuading
the Israelis to pull out of the Gaza Strip.

Eisenhower at that time had personally promised that the United States would get tough if Nasser moved to return; and Mrs.
Golda Meir's speech outlining the terms of Israeli withdrawal was personally read by both Mollet and Dulles before delivery. The terms were that "civil administrative control" of the Gaza Strip would remain in the hands of the U. N.

Israel has the toughest, most determined army in the Near East.
But it has lacked air power. With French air power backing it up,
Arab diplomats know that no Arab army or combination of Arab armies could long stand up against it. They are even more afraid of what Russia might do, however, in case war broke in the Near East.

Note — At Bermuda, British Prime Minister MacMillan urged the President to adopt a tough policy toward Nasser. Ike refused.
At one point MacMillan asked how much more proof was needed that Nasser was a power-mad fanatic. Eisenhower replied that more was needed than was then available.

INSIDE BERMUDA
Secretary of State Dulles is technically correct when he claims no secret deals were made at the Bermuda conference. Inside fact is, however, that President Eisenhower initiated nine secret memos spelling out general policy agreements.

Some memos actually were nothing but agreements to disagree.
For example, the British expressed their determination to increase trade with Communist China, despite American objection. On the other hand, the United States vetoed a British request to lift the blockade of the Chinese port of Amoy opposite Formosa, so the British could trade.

Other memos dealt with the
this matter to be left any longer in the shadowy world of doubt.
The safety of all free men compels action.

Sweepstakes Winner
Tells of Problems

BOSTON (U.P.)—So you'd like to win the Irish Sweepstakes. Well, take it from Antonio Sena, that can have drawbacks.

Two years ago he was announced
as a $138,000 winner in the Sweepstakes. After taxes, Sena, a Roxbury barber, netted $54,000.

Middle East, guided missiles
atomic tests, British arms reductions, and German reunification.
Most interesting fact about the memos was that the British demanded they be written and initialed because they recalled how other agreements had been forgotten about or denied by Dulles.

They also remembered how Mrs. Meir, the Israeli foreign minister, had submitted her U. N.
speech to Dulles in advance and received his complete O. K., only to have him renege on certain parts of it later. They also remembered how Eisenhower had sent a personal letter to Premier Ben-Gurion reassuring him on the terms of withdrawal from Gaza.

So at Bermuda the British requested that Eisenhower read the memos personally and sign them.
At first, this was refused. However, when the British insisted, Ike finally initialed, but did not sign the memos. Prime Minister MacMillan also initialed them.

Auditions for Music Scholarships At SIU April 13

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Auditions
for one-year music scholarships to Southern Illinois University will be held on the SIU campus April 13, according to Dr. Henry Bruinsma, music department chairman.

The tuition scholarships are available to players of stringed instruments, wind instruments, percussion instruments, pianists, singers and composers. Bruinsma said some 30 scholarships are available to freshmen.

Applicants must have ranked in the upper half of their graduating classes and have maintained at least "C" averages. Application forms, available from the University Scholarship Office, should be returned to Bruinsma along with a letter of recommendation from private or school teachers and a list of compositions studied during the past year.

Applicants unable to appear on the campus may send tape recordings of two representative compositions.

The Tennessee Valley Authority constructed some 30 major dams on the Tennessee River and its branches.

Marion Student Freed From Jail; to Undergo Psychiatric Exams

MARION, Ill. (AP)—A 15-year-old Marion high school sophomore who was sent to jail last Friday by a judge after he threatened his teacher and then refused to apologize is home with his parents. Williamson County Judge A. R. Cagle said the boy was released from jail for psychiatric examinations. "I still don't know what will be done with him," Cagle said. He added that the boy was an "average student and wants to go back to school."

Cornelia Leavell B. W. C. Holds April Dinner Meeting

The Cornelia Leavell Business Women's Circle of the First Baptist church held its regular dinner meeting Tuesday, April 2, in the dining room of the educational building.

After the dinner and business meeting Mrs. Mary Musgrave showed colored slides of her European trip. The pictures were beautiful and interesting. Miss Faye Moffett showed colored slides of some local scenes, which all enjoyed. Mrs. Esther Barger presented the program on the Carver School of Missions, using as her scripture lesson Hebrews 11:1-10.

Fourteen members were present and two visitors. They were: Mrs. Henry Boardman, Mrs. Loy Barger, Mrs. Otho Josey, Mrs. Vernard Clayton, Mrs. James White, Mrs. Chas. Rich, Mrs. Mary Musgrave, Miss Faye Moffett, Mrs. Pavah Whiteside, Mrs. Harriet Land, and daughter, Beverly Butler, Mrs. Iva Showler, Mrs. Jessie Wiley, Mrs. Dale Wilson, Mrs. Chas. Miles and Mrs. Carl Cooley.

14 Local Women Attend Cairo Presbyterial Meeting

Fourteen Presbyterian women from Harrisburg attended the 77th annual meeting of the Cairo Presbyterial society on Tuesday. Three automobiles made a caravan which left Harrisburg very early in order to be in attendance at the morning program which started at 9:15. Ninety women were present.

There are twelve Presbyterian societies in Illinois which make up one Synodical and this was the Cairo Presbyterial meeting.

Outstanding guests were the speaker, Dr. Paul W. Koper of Clinton, of the Board of Christian Education of the Synod and Mrs. Walter Merkelback, Centralia, Illinois Synodical president.

The quadrennial theme, "Christ Is The Way," was beautifully presented in a solo of that name, by Miss Susan Ent. The Presbyterial theme, "Love One Another—As I Have Loved You," was presented in a worship service led by Mrs. John Houdeshel. The 1957 emphasis was placed on "World Service"; the word, the world, the way, and that spirit pervaded the meeting.

The annual Illinois Synodical meeting was announced for Macomb, from June 4 through June 7. The Spring Presbyterial for 1958 will be held in Eldorado and will be the seventy-eighth.

Robinson-Gross Wedding at Carbondale

Announcement was made today of the wedding of Miss Thelma Robinson, Eldorado, and Clifton Gross, Harrisburg. They were married Thursday, March 28, at Carbondale.

The wedding took place in the chapel of the Presbyterian church, the pastor, Rev. Howe, officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Louis Leonberger, Carbondale, brother-in-law and sister of the bridegroom, were the bridal attendants.

After a wedding trip to St. Louis, Mr. and Mrs. Gross are at home at 516 East Poplar street, where they have recently equipped the house which they bought and remodelled at that address, making it into a charming place.

He is a barber with a shop on East Locust street and she operated a grocery store in Eldorado until very recently.

Loyal Daughters Class of First Christian Church Meets

The Loyal Daughters class of the First Christian church met Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. Harry Farmer, 705 South Main street. The meeting opened with the Lord's Prayer said in unison. Miss Bess Pemberton gave the devotion using the subject, "Broken Pitcher," and a poem, "The Easter Story."

Mrs. Leona Meler presided during the business meeting and $50 was voted for the purchase of new chairs for the fellowship hall of the church. Plans were made and a committee appointed for the B.P.W. A signed card was sent to Ruth Stunson who is in a Chicago hospital where she has undergone surgery.

The recreation period was led by Mrs. D. F. Churchwell.

Mrs. Meler assisted Mrs. Farmer with the serving of refreshments and those attending were Mrs. Ora Denny, Mrs. Frank Borders, Mrs. Fern Johnson, Mrs. Myrtle Adams, Mrs. Clyde Lightfoot, Mrs. Paul Roberson, Mrs. Walter Turner, Mrs. James Yates, Mrs. Freelan Smith, Mrs. Joe Poole, and Mrs. Joe Harris.

Mrs. C. M. Jones has returned from a trip to Baldwin, Mo., where she was called because of the death of her brother, Henry W. Cordes.

Mrs. Larry Barnhill of 112½ East Lincoln has been taken to the Lightner hospital for observation. She expects to be there for several days and is in room 317.

Kilts worn by the famous Evzones of Greece sometimes contain more than 40 yards of material.

MR. AND MRS. ANDREW BELL, RFD 2 Stonefort, will observe their Golden Wedding Anniversary at their home Sunday, April 7, with "open house" from 2 to 5 p. m. Mr. Bell is a retired farmer. They have two sons, Lawrence Bell, RFD 2 Carrier Mills, and Edward Bell, Carrier Mills, instructor in the Harrisburg Junior high school.

House Group Approves More 3-Day Holidays

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—The House Education Committee has approved bills to guarantee Illinoisans more "three day holidays."

The bills, given recommendations for passage by the committee Wednesday provide for celebration of six holidays on the Monday closest to the actual holiday, thus setting up three day weekends.

The bills provided for Monday celebrations of the Fourth of July, Memorial Day, Lincoln's Birthday, Washington's Birthday, Columbus Day and Veterans Day, Nov. 11.

The Senate unanimously passed and moved to the House a bill to tighten up the paternity law and make fathers liable for the support of an illegitimate child up to 18 years old.

The bill, and similar ones pending in the House, are aimed at cutting relief costs under the Aid to Dependent Children program.

The Senate passed and sent to the governor a bill to include switchblade knives under the deadly weapons act and make it illegal to carry them.

Also passed and sent to the gov-

Ira Robertson Rites At Eldorado Friday

The funeral of Ira Robertson, 67, of Eldorado RFD 1, who died yesterday, will be held Friday at 2 p. m. in the chapel of the Martin funeral home where the body lies in state. Elder Lester Ragland will officiate and burial will be in the Wolf Creek cemetery.

error were bills to appropriate $20,000 for the Agriculture Department to hire additional grain inspectors because of the huge 1956 crops, and to require subdivision contractors to get county permits before they can strip off topsoil.

More Money Bills

Other bills introduced would:

Raise surety bonds of elected state officials as part of the administration Hodge scandal reform program.

Increase the present 4 per cent taxes on parimutuel betting on flat and harness racing and use the additional money to aid the Chicago Transit Authority.

Appropriate $10,000 to the Department of Welfare to "improve the morale" of veterans who visit the haven west of the Veterans Administration Hospital at Marion.

Appropriate $500,000 for improvements at Grand Marais State Park.

Appropriate 1-2 million dollars to pay state aid claims for school bus transportation for the remainder of the year.

Five Teachers At Shawneetown Will Not Return

Five teachers in the Shawneetown schools—four at the high school and one in the grade school—have indicated they will not return next year, Herschel Newcomb, principal, has announced.

Lon McHaney, coach and social studies instructor, and Carl Steele, who teaches English and social studies, will enter the military service shortly after the end of the present term of school. Mrs. Doris Pady, English and girls' physical education, and Mrs. Dorothy Scott, home economics and family living, have resigned effective at the end of the term. Marvin Mason, grade school coach and seventh grade teacher, has resigned from the grade school faculty.

Any one qualified and interested in any of the above teaching positions are invited to call at the office of the Shawneetown high school and make application, Mr. Newcomb stated.

Saline Association

Closes Music Training School at Eldorado

Saline Baptist Association has closed an associational-wide music training school at the Eldorado

First Baptist church. Mrs. Madge Stoughton was the director and Earl Morris the state music director and taught in the school. Other teachers from the association were Mrs. Jan Montgomery and Mrs. Pam Beck. Thirty-five people received awards. Classes for all types of music learners were held from beginners to advanced students.

Several people from Saline Association will attend the Southern division of the choir festival to be held April 6 at the Marion First Baptist church beginning at 2 p. m.

Fabulous Jackson Hollow

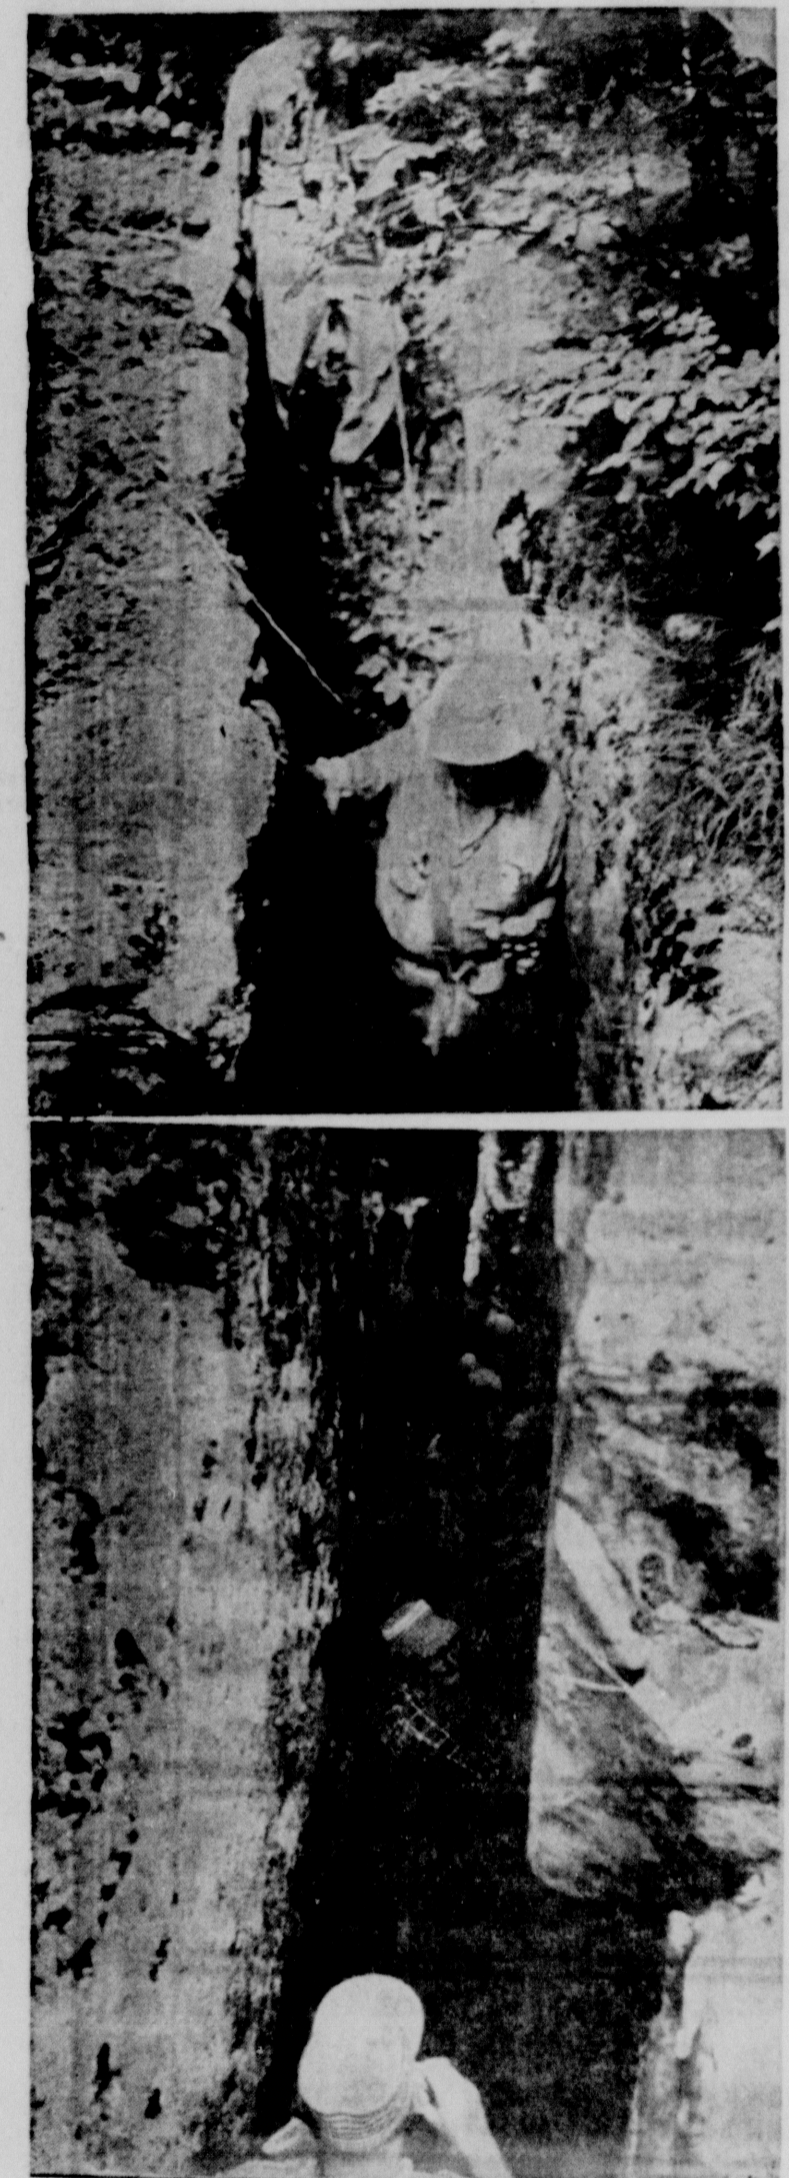

Dripping Rock a Phenomenon

By L. A. Dearinger

The old Jackson home stands beside a road, long since abandoned, on the ridge between Cave and Wildcat Hollows, these being major tributaries in the Jackson Hollow system. The small house of three rooms is falling to pieces. One of the outbuildings is a tumbledown heap. The barn is unroofed, and is due soon to collapse. On the ridge what must have been cultivated fields have been taken over by deer grass and red cedars, except where erosion has cut deep scars into the slopes. Within a few years nature will wholly reclaim this ridge, and another monument attesting man's misuse of the land will have disappeared. Down in Cave Hollow the transition back to the forest wilderness has been more quickly completed. There is an easy way into the hollow, but the interesting way is down some short, steep ledges in a box-like crevice, then down through a narrow slit between two large rock masses.

Once below the cliffs is a veritable labyrinth of crevices, caves, pits, streets and rooms, all the way to the head of the valley. Two waterfalls try vainly to present a spectacle.

Name Lemay Vice Chief Staff

WASHINGTON — Gen. Curtis E. Lemay, the cigar-chewing boss of the nation's Strategic Air Command, today was named vice chief of staff of the U. S. Air Force to succeed Gen. Thomas D. White.

White will become chief of staff of the Air Force next June 30, succeeding Gen. Nathan F. Twining who becomes chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The 50-year-old Lemay has been chief of the long-range atomic bombing force since October, 1948, making him the holder of one of the longest tenures any commander of a military force has ever had.

The blunt-spoken bomber chief once before was tapped to become Air Force vice chief but the move was called off. That was in 1953 when Lemay and Twining were slated to switch jobs. The late Gen. Hoy S. Vandenberg, Air Force chief of Staff, became ill, however, and it was decided at that time to keep Twining in his vice chief's post instead of sending him to Strategic Air Command headquarters in Omaha, Neb.

The designation of Lemay, who now stands fourth on the seniority list of Air Force generals, could mean that he is headed for the post of chief of staff eventually.

Area Churches of Christ To Hold Gospel Hymn Sing Here Sunday

The members of the Churches of Christ of this area are inviting the public to join with them in a Gospel Hymn singing in the auditorium of the Harrisburg Church of Christ at 215 South Granger street on Sunday, April 7, at 2:30 p. m.

The church building was especially constructed with the acoustics of the auditorium in mind and the voices should blend beautifully in the scriptural singing.

Common Family Complaint—High Cost of Living

NEW YORK — Joe Smith and his wife have a common complaint these days—the high cost of living.

Inflationary pressures in the economy have pushed living costs to a new all-time high in the past six months, ending almost three years of virtual price stability.

It now costs more than it did a year ago to go to work, buy a home, feed and clothe the children and take the wife out for a dinner and show.

Rising prices in the postwar period have kept many American families on the familiar treadmill.

The Tax Foundation pointed out that the average taxpayer who earned $3,000 a year after taxes in 1946 now must bring home $4,286 just to be as well off as he was 11 years ago.

The $5,000 a year man now must make $7,087 after taxes just to stay even.

Franz Pick, noted monetary expert, said rising costs have reduced the purchasing power of the U. S. dollar by 27 per cent in the postwar period alone and by almost 50 per cent since 1939.

Examples of the erosion of the dollar's buying power are numerous. The nickel subway ride now costs 15 cents and the nickel telephone call now costs a dime. A government survey showed that it costs an average $1,500 a year to send an undergraduate student to a public college, com-

Need $168.6 Million for SIU Building Program, Morris Tells Legislators

CARBONDALE, Ill. — The president of Southern Illinois University says the university needs $168,619,000 for a 12-year building program.

President D. W. Morris submitted a report today to legislators studying a proposed 238-million-dollar state building bond issue. The legislators had requested a breakdown of SIU's needs.

Besides SIU's proposed 41-million-dollar share of this issue, Morris says $39,319,000 are needed for high priority projects in the 1957-59 biennium as well as $88,300,000 for capital improvements between 1959 and 1969.

Morris lists a humanities building, student health unit, community, physical sciences, library addition, social science and fine arts buildings, among long range needs.

On his high priority list for 1957-59 are several new buildings including classrooms and laboratories for physical education, military training, home economics, college of education, industrial education and school of business.

In his report, Morris "conservatively" estimated that SIU's enrollment by 1969 would be between 15,000 and 18,000. Morris said enrollment has doubled in the last 10 years to 6,200.

Morris said the projected building program includes provision for a Madison-St. Clair county campus.

The SIU president said there was no new building at the university from 1928 to 1948 and that 75 barracks, quonset huts and residences are now being used as emergency classrooms.

"Unlike many colleges which have been forced to use these expedients on a limited scale, SIU has had to increase its use of these emergency facilities," Morris said.

LEGISLATIVE REPORT

59th DISTRICT

By Representative

GORDON E. KERR

As we near the end of the third month of this session of the General Assembly, we are reaching the point when important legislation that will affect the people of this state will be passed. Every taxpayer should keep an eye on Springfield. This week the Assembly went into a three day session. The members have settled down for a very serious three months of hard work. The political picture will begin to show up, with friction in both parties. Much of the Governor's program is in a stronger position than a month ago and I believe much of it will be passed, however some of it is almost sure of defeat. Judicial Reform has a better chance of passage.

The new personnel department is causing much concern among the members of the Legislature and county chairmen. Although no one seems to know just what the law will do, it is thought that any county chairman or committeeman must resign if they work for the State. If that be true a move will be made to amend the law. The law also puts most state employees on a merit system. The law goes into effect July 1.

Local County Governments
During the past two weeks several delegations have come to Springfield in regard to problems in their counties. One delegation that is important to a number of counties in this district has a problem of not enough money to operate the county government. Four years ago the General Assembly raised the salaries of county officials, but did not provide any extra money to pay them. It has now reached the point in some counties that the officials have not been paid for several months. According to a recent survey, Williamson, Pope, Johnson and Hardin counties are having the most trouble. The survey shows that there are eleven counties that are hard pressed for revenue, ten of them in the southern part of the State. It seems that some steps are necessary if these counties are to offer the services the people expect. This can be done by local action or by state legislation. The members of the General Assembly are united in trying to work out something to help.

New Bills
Two bills have been introduced this week to make daylight saving time compulsory for the State of Illinois. The daylight time would be for a period of 5 months.

The death sentence will be outlawed if H. B. 520 is passed. This bill will abolish capital punishment and will substitute a prison sentence of 14 years to life. This will be a highly controversial measure.

A bill defeated last session is back. This bill will prohibit selling or exchanging goods on Sunday. It exempts foods, drugs, medicines, newspapers, gasoline etc. It probably will be defeated again. A much needed bill that will allow cities to install school safety signals and pay for them out of motor fuel funds has been introduced and chances of passage are good. The signals must

Some Changes at Southern

A bit of browsing in an old diary, plus daily glances across the Southern Illinois University campus, bring a realization that changes have come since that day in late March of 1908 when the writer first became a student here. Fresh from a term as teacher of a country school, he was admitted and classified as "normal," whatever that may have meant. It was an impressive day.

Now, 49 years later, he is again impressed. This time, however, it's by the many and varied changes he has observed. Enrollment, for instance, has increased somewhat since April 6, 1908, when President Parkinson made the announcement that found its way into the diary mentioned.

The faculty and student body had met in the regular daily assembly on the third floor of Old Main. Attendance had been checked to see that each was in his assigned seat. A song had been sung, scriptures read, prayer had been made, and announcements were in order.

1,800 Per Cent Increase
At this point the president stated with evident pride that the enrollment as of that day stood at 328, "including those in high school." It was not necessary to state the number on the faculty. One had only to count the 19 seated in an orderly row on the platform and add the three necessarily absent to help student teachers ride herd on the grade school pupils in the "practice school."

Now the on-campus enrollment has increased by more than 1800 percent and stands at 6,255, not "including those in high school." At that time nearly every student knew each faculty member by name and some of the faculty knew all the students. The general atmosphere was family-like. With the present enrollment of more than 6000 students and about 450 faculty members, acquaintance cannot be so all-inclusive.

Also, the campus has expanded since that time. The University school stands on ground that was then a cow pasture, partially enclosed with rail fences, to which some faculty members brought their cows to pasture, returning to drive or lead them home at milking time.

Rural Setting

Another farm criss-crossed with rail fences lay just south of a few houses that faced on Harwood street. This later became the "state farm." The physical plant now stands on part of it. It was across this farm that the first field class in ornithology, composed of four boys and four girls, was privileged to wander and clamber over the fences, being careful not to trample the patches of rhubarb, strawberries, asparagus and other truck growing there.

A few houses and barns stood along the roadway leading east toward Snyder Cemetery. A high and narrow foot bridge across Piles Fork enabled pedestrians to cross at flood times. The writer knows about this, for he lived across the branch, where he paid $2.75 a week for room and board. The Dowdell farm was definitely a farm. Portions of the present campus lying south and west of the original 20 acres were looked upon as hinterlands. "The Normal" indeed had a rural setting.

Changes also have come to the curriculum, better to say curricula. There were then no numbered courses. A few were designated "high school." On the "normal" level, pedagogy began with "E," geography with "B" and algebra with "D." "B," arithmetic, was considered a difficult course. Class periods were 45 minutes long. Since it was not necessary to rush long distances between buildings, classes were in session 40 minutes and the shift was made in five. Teachers asked many questions and students stood to recite.

Class Rivalries

As the end of the academic year drew near, class spirits and rivalries began to appear. Class numbers were painted and pennants were flown, some times in queer places, like atop the weather vane of Old Main. That came about in the following manner:

At intervals it was the custom to take groups of students to the tower in order that they might see all the way to Carterville.

On a bright day the president conducted such a tour. Some in the group must have done a bit of extra observation, something like "casing the joint." Anyway, a class pennant attached to a cane fishing pole that was wired securely to the top of the rod above the N-E-S-W letters above the pinnacle appeared a day or so later.

The lad who placed it there lived to a reasonably ripe old age, thanks to an equally daring chap who went to the star's rescue when 'muscular cramps' froze him on the pinnacle, and arranged ropes to lower the amateur steeplejack.

Prim Dress for Girls

Girls taking physical education dressed primly, if that term could cover a costume made up of a greatly oversized blouse, voluminous bloomers and long stockings, all in deepest black. Their figures were completely draped. One daring young lady was observed on a hot summer day, trailing well in the rear of the teacher and out of that person's line of observation, with bloomers pulled just above the knees and stockings rolled just below. The next day she was again completely draped.

Research intended to reveal the habits, attitudes and beliefs of students had begun even then, and questionnaires were circulated. Only one question, somewhat personal and impertinent, is recalled. It was "Do you bathe regularly each week?" Physical tests, and measurements were also coming into vogue. Again, only one score,

SIDE GLANCES

By Galbraith

"I hope you like your new hostess job as well as I did —some days it was so interesting I neglected my personal affairs!"

290 cubic inches of expired air, is recalled.

One meeting for "men only" was held in a classroom. It proved somewhat disappointing, for the president talked only about points of etiquette and good manners. After all, this meeting might have been helpful, for two young chaps began to tip their hats the next day. Later comparison of notes revealed that each had made his initial doff to the same library helper.

It would be fun to live another 49 years to see what other changes are in store.

Perfume manufacturers once sent their concoctions to sea to let ship motion thoroughly blend the ingredients.

Two HTHS Seniors Attend Meeting

Two HTHS seniors, Judy Franks and Bryan Jones, attended the Southern District Y. M. C. A. meeting held March 24 at Carbondale. Bryan and Judy participated in a panel discussion. John Schork, HTHS music teacher, and Bob Burnett, local businessman, were also present. Mr. Burnett sang a solo and Mr. Schork accompanied him on the piano.

Principal speaker was William E. Skadden from Springfield. The benediction was given by the Rev. J. R. Canady of the First Christian church of Carbondale.

Introduce Bill to Require All Gov't Meetings Open to Public

SPRINGFIELD (UP) — An anti-secrecy bill to require all meetings of state, county and municipal governmental units to be open to the public was introduced today in the Illinois House.

The bill was sponsored by Rep. Paul Simon (D-Troy), a weekly newspaper publisher, and followed a model bill proposed by Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalism fraternity.

The bill provided that all meetings of "governing bodies of the state, counties, townships, cities, villages, incorporated towns, school boards and other municipalities, boards, bureaus, commissions or other organizations of this state which are supported in whole or in part by public funds or which expend public funds shall be public meetings."

The bill exempted meetings of the Illinois Commerce Commission and the Parole and Pardon Board at which decisions are deliberated and meetings where the acquisition or sale of real estate is being considered "provided that no other portion of such meetings shall be closed to the public."

Ask Open Meetings
Also exempted from the bill were grand and petit jury sessions and cases "where the constitution provides that a governmental unit can hold secret meetings."

The bill provided that a court may issue writs of mandamus to force governmental units under the bill to hold open meetings.

The bill provided penalties of a fine up to $100 or 30 days in jail or both.

The bill said it should be public policy of the state that "boards, councils, public commissions and other public agencies exist to aid in the conduct of the people's business" and that it is "the intent of this act that their actions be taken openly and that their deliberations be conducted openly."

The bill was referred to the House Executive Committee for hearings.

In other action as the Legislature adjourned for the week, the House passed and sent to the governor a bill to renew the "Land of Lincoln Breeders Awards" at the state fair for Illinois bred and owned livestock.

The House passed and moved to the Senate an $80,000 appropriation to pay the state's share of a program to help paraplegic veterans buy homes.

Iran Names New Premier

TEHRAN, Iran (UP) — University head Manouchehr Eghbal took office today as the youngest premier in Iran's history and immediately pledged loyalty to the Baghdad Pact and the West.

"Our friends and alliances will remain as firm as before, and we will respect all of our commitments," Eghbal told the United Press in an interview immediately after presenting his new cabinet to the Shah.

The 48-year-old former court minister and chancellor of Tehran University replaced Premier Hussein Ala in a government crisis climaxed by the slaying of three American members of the U. S. Point Four aid mission here.

Group Approves 5-Year School Building Program

WASHINGTON (UP) — A House Education subcommittee today approved a five-year two-billion-dollar compromise school construction program.

The vote was 6-1. Democrats and Republicans on the subcommittee united in an effort to bring maximum support to school construction legislation. They predicted a "good chance" for congressional approval of the measure despite the current economy drive.

President Eisenhower asked Congress to approve a four-year $1,300,000,000 program. House Democrats favored a six-year $3,600,000,000 program.

The bipartisan compromise took major features from both measures.

Four Children Burn to Death

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UP) — Four children, all under 7, burned to death Wednesday night when their home, 10 miles southeast of here, caught fire from an overheated stove.

Dr. Robert A. Evans, coroner, said the children of Mr. and Mrs. Denver Triplett were found in a bedroom, three on one bed, the other on the floor.

Deputies said the fire started from an overheated stove, fired up by the father just before he left to meet his wife after she got off work.

A fifth child, aged 11, was away from home on a visit. Deputies said the parents were ordered into domestic relations court last week following a family quarrel.

Cahokia Band Presents Concert at Carrier Mills

The Cahokia high school band visited at the Carrier Mills Community high school Tuesday and presented a concert during the afternoon.

The visiting band arrived before noon and members of both the Cahokia and CMCHS band were guests of the Carrier Mills Music Boosters at a luncheon at the Masonic temple.

Following a tour of the building and visiting various classes in the early afternoon the Cahokia band gave a concert in the CMCHS gymnasium.

After the concert a social hour was enjoyed by the CMCHS faculty and student body and the visiting bandmen and director.

Artis Harris Rites Held Today

The funeral of Artis Harris, 74, of Eldorado, who died Monday night, was held today at Tate's chapel church in Galatia. Rev. Roy Casteele of Harrisburg officiated and burial was in the church cemetery. Courtney funeral home was in charge of arrangements and the body remained there until the funeral.

Song by Mrs. Annette Anderson On Baptist Hour

The song, "Follow In His Step," with words and music by Mrs. Annette Anderson, 311 West South street, was sung on the Baptist hour this morning by the Ladies' Quartette. Three of the women in the quartet have been with the Baptist hour since its inception and are to be congratulated because they give of their service although each has passed her sixtieth birthday. Mrs. Carrie Ammon, wife of Rev. Ernest Ammon, joined the group some three or four years ago and is the junior member. The other three are Mrs. Tekla Bennett, Mrs. Bess Wiley and Mrs. Bess McDonald. Afton Partain is their accompanist at the piano.

The fourth of each month will find these women on the Baptist hour program and they continue a service which they have given under the leadership of Rev. H. C. Croslin and Rev. W. L. Moting, both deceased, and more recently by Rev. G. E. Walden, now of McLeansboro, who retired from the Baptist hour on Jan. 13.

Rev. Ernest Ammon took charge of the Baptist hour program on February 4 and the quartet will continue as stated. The quartet sings for many funerals and special occasions in this community.

Mother Goes On With Show After Daughter Drowns

TAMPA, Fla. (UP) — The mother of a theatrical family "went on with the show" in the Ice Follies opening Wednesday night despite her daughter's tragic drowning.

Teddy Roman, skating star, not many hours before had saved 4-year-old Craig Leff from drowning, unaware that at that very moment his own 4-year-old daughter, Christine, had become lost.

The little girl's body was soon found at the bottom of the tiny lake where she had been playing with other children. Roman was unable to take his part in Wednesday night's performance. His wife appeared, however.

Roman said he noticed a group of children playing in the lake near the trailer park where his mobile home is parked and ran to the rescue when he saw the Leff child struggling in the water.

He got the youngster out, gave him artificial respiration, and then noticed his own child was missing.

The U. S. Weather Bureau at Cairo said the rainfall was expected to end Friday with partly cloudy and cooler weather.

The bureau reported almost three inches of rainfall in the last 24 hours. The Ohio River was expected to crest at 33 feet Sunday at Cairo. That is 7 feet below flood stage.

At Marion, the U. S. Veterans Hospital weather station recorded 3.56 inches of rainfall in the last 24 hours, the heaviest since Jan. 5, 1950.

Crab Orchard Lake near here ran 24 inches over the spillway today, its highest level since 1951. Some industrial workers in the refuge area were re-routed over other roads to their jobs.

The rising lake has even inconvenienced the birds. One goose had to flee her nest on a small island when the lake rose, said refuge Manager Eugene Crawford.

The District Highway Department at Carbondale said a one-mile stretch of Ill. 34 southeast of Benton had about 10 inches of water running over it. A spokesman said that the highway had been staked and that cars still were moving over it.

Wallace Rites at Eldorado Saturday

The funeral of J. W. Wallace, 79, who died in Eldorado Tuesday, will be held at 3 p. m. Saturday in the First Baptist church there. Rev. A. B. Plunkett will officiate and burial will be in the Coffee cemetery of Somerset community south of Harrisburg.

The body will lie in state at the Bean and Tanner funeral home in Eldorado until time for the funeral.

Abraham Lincoln's ancestors came from Hingham, in Norfolk County, England.

Gov't Seeks to Block Merger Of Steel Firms

NEW YORK (UP) — The federal government indicated today it hopes to obtain a speedy decision in its efforts to block the merger of Bethlehem Steel Corp. and Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co.

Allen Doherty, assistant U. S. attorney general, dropped a legal bombshell Wednesday when he announced the government would file a motion for a summary judgment within the next 30 days.

A spokesman for Bethlehem Steel declined to comment on the development. He indicated the move caught the company by surprise.

The move surprised attorneys present at a pre-trial hearing in the government's antitrust suit against Bethlehem and Youngstown, the nation's No. 2 and No. 6 ranked steel producers.

The proposed merger would be one of the biggest in the history of American industry, creating a steel giant with sales and assets well in excess of $2 billion. The consolidation would, however, not jeopardize U. S. Steel's ranking as the world's biggest steelmaker.

The government has opposed the merger of the two steel firms ever since they first announced their intention some two years ago. U. S. Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell has charged the merger would lessen competition in the steel industry.

Area Hit by Heavy Rains

MARION, Ill. (UP) — Waterlogged southern Illinois faces the prospect of more rainfall tonight.

The U. S. Weather Bureau at Cairo said the rainfall was expected to end Friday with partly cloudy and cooler weather.

The bureau reported almost three inches of rainfall in the last 24 hours. The Ohio River was expected to crest at 33 feet Sunday at Cairo. That is 7 feet below flood stage.

At Marion, the U. S. Veterans Hospital weather station recorded 3.56 inches of rainfall in the last 24 hours, the heaviest since Jan. 5, 1950.

Crab Orchard Lake near here ran 24 inches over the spillway today, its highest level since 1951.

Some industrial workers in the refuge area were re-routed over other roads to their jobs.

The rising lake has even inconvenienced the birds. One goose had to flee her nest on a small island when the lake rose, said refuge Manager Eugene Crawford.

The District Highway Department at Carbondale said a one-mile stretch of Ill. 34 southeast of Benton had about 10 inches of water running over it. A spokesman said that the highway had been staked and that cars still were moving over it.

Walter Seyler Rites at Galatia Saturday 2 p. m.

The funeral of Walter I. Seyler, 59, a former resident of Galatia who died at the Veterans hospital in Dwight Tuesday evening, will be Saturday at 2 p. m. at the Galatia Methodist church. Burial will be in the Webber Camp Ground. The body will lie in state at the Courtney funeral home until funeral time.

He is survived by his wife, Prudence, of Manteno where he had been an employee of the hospital; three daughters, Mrs. Bob Starkey of Pontiac, Mich., Mrs. John Cain of Manteno and Miss Pat Seyler of Phoenix, Ariz. Also surviving are six sisters, Mrs. Mable Pulliam of Herrin, Mrs. Harry Springs of Johnston City, Mrs. Abbie Smith of Christopher, Mrs. Will Evans of Florida, Burel of Du Quoin and Vivian of Florida.

Former Judge Dies at Effingham

EFFINGHAM, Ill. (UP) — M. C. McCallen, 82, former county judge, was found dead at his home Wednesday. Authorities said he presumably had suffered a heart attack.

McCallen, a Democrat, was an attorney and a justice of the peace.

Envoy Suicides After Charges By Senate Group

CAIRO (UP) — Canadian Ambassador Egerton H. Norman committed suicide early to day because of charges in a U. S. Senate subcommittee that he was a Communist. The Canadian government denied the charge.

The Canadian Embassy announced the death of the 48-year-old career diplomat in a pointed statement which said he was an "extremely conscientious public servant" and that "recent unpleasant publicity and accusations greatly distressed him."

In Ottawa Canadian External Affairs Minister Lester B. Pearson learned of Norman's suicide when a United Press correspondent called him out of bed. "This is dreadful news," he said. He declined further comment until he heard from Cairo.

The news of Norman's death was expected to touch off a major debate in the Canadian House of Commons meeting today.

The widespread publicity branding Norman a Communist sprang from a Senate subcommittee's action March 14 in releasing the transcript in which he was branded a Red. Committee Counsel Robert Morris said the subcommittee had "quite a few security reports which have a great deal of information to the effect that he is a Communist."

The State Department last month public disassociated itself from the subcommittee's statements.

It said the allegations released by the subcommittee "do not represent opinions of the United States government."

"The United States maintains the friendliest relations with Canada and has every confidence in the Canadian governments' judgment in the selection of its official representatives," the department said.

The Canadian government issued a series of statements declaring the subcommittee findings false. Canadian newspapers rose to his defense and said Norman had been "dragged through the muck" for no justifiable reason.

Walter Seyler Rites at Galatia Saturday 2 p. m.

The funeral of Walter I. Seyler, 59, a former resident of Galatia who died at the Veterans hospital in Dwight Tuesday evening, will be Saturday at 2 p. m. at the Galatia Methodist church. Burial will be in the Webber Camp Ground. The body will lie in state at the Courtney funeral home until funeral time.

He is survived by his wife, Prudence, of Manteno where he had been an employee of the hospital; three daughters, Mrs. Bob Starkey of Pontiac, Mich., Mrs. John Cain of Manteno and Miss Pat Seyler of Phoenix, Ariz. Twisters Slam Southern Areas; 28 Killed, 900 Hurt in Storms

By United Press
A giant spring storm unleashed a swarm of tornadoes on the South, dumped heavy snows on the north central Plains and lashed a thousand-mile-wide belt of the nation's midsection with sleet, ice, drenching rains and high winds today.

Twisters slammed Mississippi, Tennessee and Alabama, killing one person and injuring at least 57.

The Weather Bureau said tornadoes and severe thunderstorms were expected to lash north and central Georgia and western South Carolina during the day.

On the opposite end of the far-flung storm, a snow storm piled up to 25 inches of snow on western South Dakota, played havoc with highway traffic across a broad area of the northern Plains and forced scores of schools to close in southern Minnesota.

Weathermen issued a blizzard warning for western and northern Minnesota and southern North Dakota and issued a heavy snow warning for parts of South Dakota, Iowa and Nebraska.

A United Press count showed at least 28 persons killed and almost 900 injured in the violent storm that began three days ago. Tornadoes have killed 17 persons, 10 of them in the Dallas, Tex., area. Five persons died in the snowstorm as it swept out of the central Rockies.

Four tornadoes lashed Mississippi during the morning. A twister cut through a rural area near Bay Springs, killing 1 woman, injuring 15 persons and reducing 10 frame homes to splinters.

Another ripped the Mississippi State Sanatorium near Jackson, injuring 30 persons and badly damaging the five-story building. About 200 patients and staff members were in the sanatorium when the storm struck.

Four persons were injured when another tornado smashed seven homes, a store, church and three barns near Glen Allan, Miss.

Other tornadoes struck in Wisconsin.

Engineer is Killed, 26 Passengers Hurt In Train Collision

SECAUCUS, N. J. (UP) — The engineer of a Pennsylvania Railroad commuter train was killed and 26 passengers were injured Wednesday night when it slammed into the rear of a "deadhead" baggage train near here.

The passenger train engine and two cars of the baggage train were derailed, blocking the main line. Seven trains scheduled to leave Penn Station were delayed.

A voice said in Morgan's ear, "If I could dance, I'd be dancing with her."

Morgan shot a quick look over his shoulder at Tom Alder, who had moved up beside and behind him. Alder was looking across the room at Helen Jagger.

"You're from Missouri. I never heard of a Missourian who couldn't dance."

"Well, maybe I just don't feel like dancing," Alder went on, more gregarious than Morgan had ever known him to be. "My kid brother, he was the dancer of the family. Right smart, light on his feet. . . . Didn't know I had a brother, did you?"

"Alder," said Morgan evenly, "I know practically nothing about you."

"My brother wore a gray suit. He was in the State Guard when the war started and he stayed with Pappy Price all through it. He even stayed on, after. He was killed in '65."

"Sorry, Alder," Morgan said, adding, "In Mexico?"

"Close. Texas. He was with Shelby's rear guard when the Sixteenth Illinois cut them to pieces." Alder exhaled lightly. "He was studying law when he went off with the State Guard."

Morgan knew now why Alder had become talkative. He said, "What did you do before the war?"

"I was a lawyer," Alder replied bleakly. "For that matter, Charley Quantrell was a schoolteacher. And we even had a preacher."

Skaggs. The only man we lost at Lawrence. I hear they dragged him up and down the street and finally poured coal oil over him and set fire to him."

"That," said Morgan coolly, "was after your bunch murdered 179 men."

Alder bared his teeth slightly. "Guess it's too soon for Johnny Rebs and Yanks to get together and talk about the war?"

He inclined his head and dropped his voice. "Here comes your war!"

Alder faded backwards and Morgan, raising his eyes, saw Helen Jagger coming toward him.

She said, as she came up, "We never danced, Chad. I'm not going to spend my old age wondering what it would have been like if we had danced."

She held up her arms and he took her and they glided away.

Helen, even though she had taken the initiative, was silent for a complete circuit of the dance floor. Then, her eyes watching Cass and her brother nearby, she said, "She's growing up quickly."

From the direction of the door Wild Jack Mason's voice rose above the music: "Cowboy, when I tell you something, listen."

Morgan released Helen and turned toward the sickening smack of something striking flesh.

A cowboy was down on the floor, blood welling from a bad cut on his forehead. Wild Jack Mason, a revolver in his fist, stood with his back against the wall. The gun was pointed at a second cowboy a few feet away.

Wild Jack said nastily, as Alder and Morgan descended upon him, "Go back to your dancin', folks. This is marshal business."

"Put down that gun, Mason!" snapped Morgan.

"Mister Morgan?" sneered Wild Jack. "You were one of the hollerers for law and order. Well, I'm keepin' order here and no cowboys can run a shindy on me."

A crowd was gathering behind Morgan's back. General Simcoe appeared beside him. "Marshal," he said sharply, "I'll be responsible for these men. They work for me."

"Then pay their fines in the morning," snarled Wild Jack, "and get them out of town."

Tom Alder said softly, "Put up your gun."

Wild Jack's bloodshot eyes focused angrily on Alder. "You talkin' to me?"

"Come outside," Alder said ominously. "I've been hearing about you for a long time, Mr. Wild Jack. Maybe you're as good as they say you are . . . and maybe you're a bluffer."

Wild Jack became alert to Alder to the extent that no one else facing him seemed to matter.

"This isn't your affair," Wild Jack said, turning sullen.

"What if I make it my business?" Alder's hand came out of his pocket and there was a Navy revolver in his fist. "Well, Wild Jack?" he taunted. "I've got a gun in my hand."

Joe Jagger came up. "Marshal, this is a friendly get-together and we want no violence."

"Whatever you say, Mayor," Wild Jack said nastily. "I was only doing my duty."

Morgan, knowing that the crisis was over, turned to look for his dancing partner.

"I want to go home," she said. "I mean, the hotel."

"Of course, Cass. I'll take you."

As they reached the Drovers Hotel, Cass Simcoe stopped.

"Chad," she said, low, "I'm sorry I'm such a poor sport."

"Nonsense, you've had a rugged day of it," she cried, and suddenly buried her head against his

Old Judge Hall

Early Southern Illinois Era Extolled In Poetry of Rosiclar's Noted Poet

ROSICLARE, Ill.—(Special)—Old Judge Hall's once powerful frame is wasted and his hearing is almost gone, but his clear, ice-blue eyes and his booming, sonorous voice belie a soul still filled with the romance of an era past.

That he is familiar with the hills and bluffs, the streams and the pioneer people of Southern Illinois—that he has shared in their romance—is further evidenced by the story told in the 86-year-old poet's best known work, "Ballads From The Bluffs," published in 1948.

Ellihu Nichols Hall was born near the small community of Rock Creek in Southern Illinois. He is the son of pioneer parents, who traveled by oxcart and wagon from North Carolina.

In his youth, he heard many stories, and he remembered the living history and folklore surrounding the hardy people who carved their settlements from the wooded wilderness of the Ozark foothills.

Lover of History

As he grew to young manhood, he came to love reading and studying history. It became easy for him to match his hills, rivers and bluffs with the deeds and actions of the pioneers of Hardin County.

From the time he was a combination teacher and pupil before the turn of the century to his county positions of judge and school superintendent, Old Judge Hall felt the need to personalize the history he knew so well.

"Why, the books I had to learn and teach from were full of facts about nations waging war and signing peace treaties. They told glorified stories of famous peoples' deeds in government.

"But they neglected to tell of the men and women who made these works possible. My students, and even I, had little knowledge about the history of our own area."

Daily Routine Life

"Maybe fact-bound histories are good for reference material," he declares, "but they don't come near telling the customs' hardships and characters of the people concerned in making those facts come about."

Old Judge Hall has made a life-long dream of recording the events of these people come true. His project meant concerning himself with the actual life of Hardin County—and putting his findings into readable form.

"Folklore is a changing thing," he said. "It incorporates the feelings, fears and faults of people as well as their hopes, ambitions and daily routine life."

Thus, Judge Hall's ballads, written in trochaic verse, serve to educate and entertain their readers with stories of people of Hardin

County in an era which ended with the organization of law and order in this part of America.

Misdeeds Add to Love

Folklore knows many secrets, and the Ozark bluffs and mountains are veritable mines of folklore wealth. These Illinois Ozarks, standing high above the dismal swamplands, claimed the residence of the first Mound Builders and the first White settlers in Illinois.

Horse thieves, moonshiners and counterfeiters chalked their toll of misdeeds in the early days of the state, adding much to the picture of that area.

Ford Road, threading its way from Ford's Ferry through bluffs and mountain gaps to the salt mines of Equality, became the most notorious highway in America. It has been said that on every mile "men have bit the dust of

Ford Road."

Even each segment of the road held its ghost stories. The screaming panthers and giant snakes gave rise to the tale of a big black dog of unusual size and frightfulness from which even the best marksman ever drew blood.

"I'm a scientist," said Judge Hall, "and I don't believe in spooks and superstitions—I never have. But I once had an experience along Blind Hollow Road that neither I nor science can explain."

Dead Man's Ghost?

"The road itself runs off Ford's Road through a narrow gorge beginning in deep ravines on the Old John Tucker Mountain for about three miles to the Ohio River, ten miles south of Shawneetown."

"I'd heard stories told by old-timers of the men who disappeared in Blind Hollow and were never heard from again.

"One day after being away for some time, I rode through Blind Hollow on my horse, Abe. I saw a man coming toward us on foot through the gap. I thought the fellow looked familiar, but I couldn't place him."

He was well dressed and carrying a satchel. He had his hat low over his eyes, but I felt sure as we drew nearer I would recognize him."

"But as chance would have it, we had to cross a drainway. I watched the man's hat disappear around a small bank as he stepped into the drainway. When he didn't reappear, I jumped my horse to the top of the bank—and saw nothing. Not for a half mile down the road was there a sign of that fellow."

BYRNE-ING 'EM IN—Tommy Byrne keeps up a constant stream of chatter to batters but is all business when he whips his arm around and snaps pin-point hooks high and tight and-around hitters' knees. The Yankees' veteran left-hander, who staged a remarkable comeback two years ago, now is equally as valuable as a relief worker.

Record Field Opens Play in 21st Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—A record field of 102 opened the 21st Masters golf tournament under a hot sky today with a chance of rain and a chance that an amateur could win it to fulfill the dream of Bobby Jones.

Jones, who retired undefeated as an amateur king after winning the big four of world tournaments in 1930 founded the Masters tournament shortly thereafter.

No amateur has won a big one since then, save Johnny Goodman's victory in the 1933 U. S. Open. But in the Masters, they have come close twice in the last three years and today the name on the tip of almost everyone's tongue was Harvie Ward.

Ward has proved his consistency by winning the U. S. amateur the last two years, the first repeater in that unpredictable event since Lawson Little in 1934-35. He also has had 69's the last two days in practice on the Augusta National Course.

These performances caused the experts to evaluate the Masters a possibility for an amateur coup. They also remember that Billy Joe Patton in 1954 and Ken Venturi a year ago had it in their pockets except for the last nine holes.

Famous Twosome

Ben Hogan and Sam Snead, the perennial Masters favorites, are here, too, and both have been shooting par or just a little over during the last few days.

Snead has been playing like Snead, hitting the greens but missing his short putts; Hogan has been playing the course like the scholar he is and predicts the hottest putter will win.

This famous twosome fought it out in a playoff, with Snead winning, three years ago after the amateur wonder, Patton, cast caution to the breezes with only a half-dozen holes to go.

Every past Masters champion is here for the event with one exception—Ralph Guldahl, who won in 1939 with a 279 record that stood until Hogan came in with 274 in 1953.

The entry list also includes all past National Amateur and Open champions and a select group of other qualifiers.

CARRIER MILLS high school Senior play cast takes a "break" during final dress rehearsal. The play, "Mr. Co-ed," a comedy, will be presented Friday at 1:15 and 8 p. m. (Register Staff Photo)

Carrier Mills Senior Class to Present Three-Act Comedy, 'Mr. Co-ed,' Friday

"Mr. Co-ed," a three-act comedy, will be presented by the Senior class of the Carrier Mills Community high school Friday, April 5, at 1:15 p. m. and at 8 p. m.

The play takes place in the woman's dormitory at Cedar Hill College, a staid and ivied college for ladies, somewhere in the East.

In the cast are: Lotus Smith (Harold Casey), an 18-year-old cowboy from Skelton Hole, somewhere out West.

Miss Eustacia Hayworth (Mary Craig), the president of Cedar Hill and about 45 years old.

Miss Pauline Pooley (Carolyn McSparin), a 40-year-old Physical Education teacher dedicated to building "fine, strong, healthy bodies."

Miss Geraldine Carr (Phoebe Holmes), a 39-year-old English teacher who "just lives" poetry.

Homer Quackenbush (James Ozmment), an elderly but spry custodian who is a western stories' addict.

Oliver (Bob Butler, an able, aggressive man interested in founding an Oliver Academy.

Emily Manning (Janice Williams), a freshman at Cedar Hill on a scholarship.

Mrs. Cobina Colgate-Brewster (Beverly Arnold), Lotus' wealthy grandmother and the most influential trustee of Cedar Hill.

Gilbert Glyer (Norman O'Keefe), a 30-year-old, modern English poet who composes with "spaces."

Bernice Bramberry (Nancy Pyle), Ruby Nolan (Elaine

Smith), Carol Wood (Mary Murphy), Betty Smith (Janet Beggs), and Jenny Jones (Delice Blake), students at Cedar Hill.

The director of the play is Mrs. Jean Crowder.

Student directors are Jack Dorris and Delice Blake.

HTHS Baseball Team Begins Play Monday; Track Starts April 11

Calufetti Lists Spring Sports, Grid Cage Schedules

The HTHS spring sports schedule, which shows baseball starting April 8 and track beginning April 11, was announced today by Athletic Director Lawrence Calufetti.

Calufetti also announced the football and basketball schedules for next year.

Coach John Dotson's baseball team will get its season underway by meeting McLeansboro at the VFW field on the Dorris Heights road at 3:30 p. m. next Monday, weather permitting.

A dual meet with Marion will be held here at 4 p. m. next Thursday as Coach Calufetti gets the track season under way.

The complete spring sports schedule:

- April 8—Baseball, McLeansboro here.
- April 10—Baseball, Carrier Mills there.
- April 11—Track, Marion here.
- April 13—Track, Hurst-Bush Mineral Area meet.
- April 15—Baseball, Norris City there.
- April 20—West Frankfort Relays.
- April 24—Baseball, Norris City here.
- April 27—Herrin Relays.
- April 30—Conference freshman-sophomore track meet at West Frankfort.
- May 1—Baseball, West Frankfort here.
- May 3—Conference track meet at West Frankfort.
- May 6—Baseball, McLeansboro there.
- May 8—Baseball, Carrier Mills here.

May 9—District track meet.

May 13-15 — District baseball meet.

May 17-18—State track meet.

The football schedule reveals that Carbondale Community high school will replace Wood River on the schedule.

The season will open Sept. 13 at Murphysboro and end Nov. 9 at Benton. There will be a freshman-sophomore game with each team met in varsity competition.

The basketball season will open Nov. 29 against Carverville here, the schedule reveals. In addition to the six conference teams, two games will be played against El Dorado and single games will be played against Carverville, Carrier Mills, Johnston City, McLeansboro, Carbondale and Anna-Jonesboro.

The Egyptian Holiday tournament and the Saline county tournament are scheduled to be held in Davenport gym.

Indians Defeat Giants, 13-6, for Sixth Straight; Tigers Trip Cards, 8-5

By United Press

Manager Kerby Farrell is beaming for the first time this spring today because the Cleveland Indians are "getting the runs" which he says they need to make a strong bid for the American League pennant.

The Indians rolled to their sixth straight victory Wednesday when they pounded the New York Giants, 13-6, and now have averaged 9.3 runs a game for six contests.

The feature of the Tribe's latest batting spurge was a nine-run, seventh-inning rally climaxed by Rocky Colavito's two-run homer. Gene Woodling and Joe Altobelli also homered in a 12-hit attack that raised the Indians' spring record to 13 victories and nine defeats.

Landis Belts One

The Chicago White Sox celebrated their final appearance of the spring at their Tampa base by beating the New York Yankees, 8-4. Rookie Jim Landis paced the White Sox' 11-hit attack with his third homer of the spring and a single.

Harvey Haddix spun three-hit ball for five innings and knocked in all his team's runs with a bases-loaded double as the Philadelphia Phillies downed the Boston Red Sox, 3-1.

The Detroit Tigers scored three runs in the 10th inning to beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 8-5, despite the fact that Stan Musial raised his spring average to .469 with a homer and a single. Earl Torgeson's triple, three singles and a passed ball by Hobie Landrith enabled the Tigers to score their three tallies in the 10th.

Homers Beat Redlegs

The Pittsburgh Pirates ended a run of 27 1-3 scoreless innings against Kansas City pitching when they scored in the seventh inning and went on to defeat the Athletics, 2-0. Frank Thomas singled home the run that broke the scoreless duel and Johnny Powers homered in the ninth for the Pirates' other run. Bob Kuzava and rookies Don Kildoo and Clarence Church hurled the shutout for the Bucs.

Roy Sievers, Jim Lemon and Clint Courtney homered off Warren Hacker in the fourth inning to spark the Washington Senators

No one needs worry about lack of democracy in higher education. Even the best-paid fullbacks aren't snobs.

Woman is Named Ass't White House Press Secretary

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower Wednesday announced the surprise selection of Mrs. Anne Wheaton, director of women's publicity at the Republican National Committee, as assistant White House press secretary.

The President made the announcement to some 1,500 women attending the fifth annual Republican Women's Conference. The women greeted the announcement with cheers and applause.

Mrs. Wheaton is the first woman ever to fill the post at the White House. She replaces Murray Snyder, who recently was named assistant secretary of defense for public affairs.

The President made the announcement as he discussed the administration's efforts to bring women into posts of responsibility.

Church Services Held at Eldorado Nursing Home

Church services were held in the Eldorado nursing home on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of last week. Rev. Rhoda Yates of Raleigh served as minister at the meetings and his wife acted as song leader. Darlene Goodson accompanied the songs and presented some special music. The patients appeared most grateful to have the gospel brought to them. They are unable to attend church and are reported, as the song says, to be "hungering and thirsting to hear the story told."

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Whitlock of Alton were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bowers.

Rev. Otis Langston of Calvary Baptist church of Granite City will be the evangelist for a revival to be held in the First Baptist church from April 4 to April 14.

The Philathea Sunday school class of the First Baptist church met in the lower rooms of the church on March 28, for a class social and business meeting. Versa Sisney presided for the absent president. The meeting opened with the song, "Love Divine," and Dessie McElhane led the prayer. Nell Johnson read Psalm 100 for a scripture reading. Following the business meeting there were games and prizes. An Easter basket was won by Kathryn Mathis. Others present were Beulah Miller, Opal Goodson, Iva Dillbeck, Carolyn Bradley, Blanche Spurlock, Marie Hale, Lizzie Jones, Lena Whitlock, Mary Moore, and Beulah Bishop.

The Junior union of the Training union of the First Baptist church met at the church March 28 for a social. Mr. and Mrs. Chesly Wiseman are leaders of this group. Games and refreshments marked the social hour. Attending were Kenneth Farmer, Stephen Taylor, Gene Herndon, Gene McElhane, George Besch, Wayne Tate, Sharon Miller, Nancy Taylor, Gwen Tate, Darlene Goodson, Maria Upchurch and Mr. and Mrs. Wiseman.

Mrs. Jerry Davis and daughter of Rantoul have returned to their home after a week's visit with Mr. and Mrs. James Rittenberry.

Rend Lake Project Feasible, State Engineers Report

BENTON, Ill. — The Illinois Division of Waterways says the proposed construction of a multi-million-dollar lake in Franklin and Jefferson counties is feasible from an engineering standpoint.

A state survey released this week estimates the cost of the proposed Rend Lake at from $18,600,000 to $22,370,000 depending on whether an elevation of 405 or 410 is used.

The lake would permit consumption of from 20 to 40 million gallons of water a day for municipal and industrial use, recreation and conservation.

The lake would cover from 18,900 to 24,800 acres.

State Abolishes Free Fair Passes

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Gov. Stratton has announced the abolition of all free admissions for adults to the Illinois State Fair, effective in 1958.

Exhibitors, press, officials and politicians will be expected to purchase a season pass to cost $2 to $2.50. The pass will admit the family and automobile. Children under 12 will be admitted free.

Stratton said political days probably will be continued but the party faithful must provide themselves with a paid pass. "The plan is to treat everybody alike," he told newsmen.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.
(Written for NEA Service)

People, programs of entertainment and products for sale on the market place are measured in terms of popularity. Success is rewarded with medals, plaques, scrolls, scores on a rating sheet, or with words of appreciation.

Failure is indicated by expressions of disapproval, decreased sales or by dead silence. Human beings are very free with their disapproval, and very enthusiastic in their appreciation of people or things which they enjoy.

God is just as enthusiastic in His approval and disapproval of the things which people do, say and believe. He wants us to love our fellowmen. He wants us to recognize and confess our shortcomings. He wants us to have faith in His way of life for us.

Our trouble is that we give less attention to gaining His approval than we do to gaining man's applause. "Seek ye first the kingdom of God." The mere human rewards will be easier to attain.

Illinois Praised For Vote Turnout

SPRINGFIELD — Illinois won praise today from the American Heritage Foundation for its "dedicated citizenship" which resulted in a high turnout at the polls in last November's election.

The foundation, in a letter to Gov. William G. Stratton, said Illinois ranked first in the east north-central region with 72.5 per cent of the population in the voting age group casting ballots. The percentage ranked eighth on a national basis.

Stratton said the results were "gratifying."

Many, Many Thanks...

for the splendid vote given me in my campaign for Town Clerk.

To Zola Young Sloan:

I extend my sincerest congratulations in your successful campaign and re-election.
